DETAILED ACTION

Specification

1. The disclosure is objected to because of the following informality: a title for the detailed description of the preferred embodiment has been omitted.

Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Objections

2. Claims 3 and 5-7 are objected to under 37 CFR 1.75(c) as being in improper form because a multiple dependent claim should refer to other claims in the alternative only, and cannot depend from any other multiple dependent claim. See MPEP § 608.01(n). Accordingly, claims 3 and 5-7 have not been further treated on the merits for the purpose of this office action.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

4. Claims 1-2, 4, and 8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Tanimura US 2003/00620301. Tanimura teaches all the limitations as claimed for feed unit for feeding out fuel within a tank including: a baffle 11a which has a first chamber 11d for collecting fuel, having a fuel pump 12 for sucking up fuel and having a fuel-pump suction opening 16 arranged in the vicinity of the bottom of the first chamber 11d of the baffle 11a, characterized in that a second chamber 15 is connected to the first chamber 11d via a valve 18, and in that the valve is a throttle valve 18, with the volumetric flow of fuel that is restricted by the valve being smaller than the volumetric flow fed by the fuel pump 12; a second chamber 15 is manufactured integrally with the baffle 11a; and a valve 18 is arranged in a common wall of the first chamber 11d and of the second chamber 15, as shown in figure 1; and a valve 18 that is capable of throttling a volumetric flow in such a manner that the level is equalized in three to five minutes after the fuel pump has stopped. While features of an apparatus may be recited either structurally or functionally, claims directed to an apparatus must be distinguished from the prior art in terms of structure rather than function, because apparatus claims cover what a device is, not what a device does (Hewlett-Packard Co. v. Bausch & Lomb Inc., 909 F.2d 1464, 1469, 15 USPQ2d 1525, 1528 (Fed. Cir. 1990)). Thus, if a prior art structure is capable of performing the intended use as recited in the preamble, or elsewhere in a claim, then it meets the claim.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

6. Claim 8 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Tanimura US 2003/0062031. Tanimura discloses the general conditions of the claimed invention except for the express disclosure of a second chamber of a volume of approximately 10-20% of a baffle volume. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to provide a first chamber having a volume between 10 and 20% of a volume of a baffle, since the claimed values are merely an optimum or workable range. It has been held that where the general conditions of a claim are disclosed in the prior art, discovering the optimum or workable ranges involves only routine skill in the art. In re Aller, 105 USPQ 233.

Conclusion

7. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure are cited on form 892 herewith.
